AZ CORP COMMISSION DOCUMENT CONTROL

Arizona Corporation Commission

OCKETED

JUN - 1 2004

DOCKETED BY

BEFORE THE ARIZONA

CORPORATION COMMISSION

IN THE MATTER OF THE
APPLICATION OF ARIZONA WATER
COMPANY, AN ARIZONA
CORPORATION, TO EXTEND ITS EXISTING CERTIFICATE OF
CONVENIENCE AND NECESSITY
WITHIN THE TOWN OF PINETOPLAKESIDE, NAVAJO COUNTY, ARIZONA

Docket No. W-01445A-04-0013

REPLY IN SUPPORT OF IBEW LOCAL 387'S APPLICATION TO INTERVENE

In its "Opposition to International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local No. 387, Application to Intervene" which was filed earlier this day, the Arizona Water Company ("AWC") argues that Local Union 387, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, AFL-CIO ("IBEW Local 387") should be denied intervention in this matter on the grounds that, inter alia, "[t]he IBEW is neither a landowner nor a potential customer in Company's proposed expansion area" and "there is absolutely no connection between the relief sought by the Company's application and the IBEW's status as a bargaining agent." In so doing, AWC fails to mention, let alone discuss, the undisputed fact that its bargaining unit employees will almost certainly end up having to work in the proposed expansion area.

What is more important, AWC overlooks the fact that Article XV, §3 of the Arizona Constitution expressly states that the interests of public service employees are on par with those of patrons:

The corporation commission shall have full power to, and shall... make reasonable rules, regulations, and orders, by which such [public service] corporations shall be governed in the transaction of business within the State, and... make and enforce reasonable rules, regulations, and orders for the convenience, comfort, and safety, and the preservation of the health, of the employees and patrons of such corporations[.]

(Emphasis added). To the extent that AWC argues that IBEW Local 387's Application to Intervene ought to be denied on the grounds that, unlike landowners and potential customers, it has never sought intervention in any of AWC's previous cases, IBEW Local 387 suggests that this argument really calls for more active participation from IBEW Local 387 in AWC's cases pending before this Commission, not less.

Lastly, in response to AWC's unsubstantiated suggestion that IBEW Local 387's true motivation for seeking intervention in this case stems from a factually unrelated unfair labor practice charge which is currently pending before the National Labor Relations Board, IBEW Local 387 would simply like to point out that such activity, even if true, is clearly protected by the First Amendment to the United States Constitution:

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

(Emphasis added). Indeed, the United States Supreme Court has so held on at least three prior occasions. See, e.g., California

Motor Transport Co. v. Trucking Unlimited, 404 U.S. 508, 510-11 (1972); United Mine Workers v. Pennington, 381 U.S. 657, 670 (1965); Eastern R.R. President's Conference v. Noerr Motor Freight, Inc., 365 U.S. 127, 139 (1961) ("The right of the people to inform their representatives in government of their desires with respect to the passage or enforcement of laws cannot properly be made to depend upon their intent in doing so. It is neither unusual nor illegal for people to seek action on laws in the hope that they may bring about an advantage to themselves and a disadvantage to their competitors.")

By its terms, the First Amendment protects "the rights of people to petition the Government for a redress of grievances." The United States Supreme Court has found that efforts by Unions to influence the government are protected by both the constitutional right to petition and by a right of access implicit in the representative form of government. Thus, if the Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") were to deny IBEW Local 387's Application to Intervene, not because of the merits of the request, but rather on the Union's alleged motivation for making the request, then the ALJ would be acting in contravention to the First Amendment. For as stated by the Ninth Circuit in its 1976 decision in Franchise Realty Interstate Corp. V. Culinary Workers, 542 F.2d 1076, 1082, cert. denied, 430 U.S. 940 (1977), "to condition the right to associate and petition on the motivations of the petitioners would have a chilling effect on exercise of this fundamental First Amendment right".
